

go get it!

February 2006

www.GoGetIt.org

A Central Park Proposal

Richard Pursey is used to getting what he wants. This December he wanted three things: to marry his girlfriend Elaine, to propose to her at the ice rink in Central Park, and to use her favorite snack, Krispy Kreme Donuts, in the proposal.

With the help of Go Get It!, Richard did all of this and more. As he told Go Get It! founder Jenifour Jones, "She is the most amazing women I have ever met... She deserves everything."

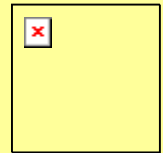

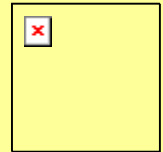

Their event began weeks before they ever landed at JFK as Richard began sneaking off to London for ice skating lessons. He was determined to skate to her without falling. Then in December, Richard whisked Elaine off to what she thought was a weekend of pre-holiday shopping. Little did she know her life was about to change!

The evening began as Richard and Elaine enjoyed a whiskey at the Mark Hotel bar. Minutes after Richard left for the "men's room," the concierge gave Elaine her first clue, a box of Krispy Kreme donuts with a picture of Richard's children holding a sign that read, "Go outside, Your Carriage awaits."

Elaine's whirlwind evening sent her to exciting stops throughout Manhattan. At every stop she was given a present, her next clue and serenaded by saxophonists playing her favorite song- Endless Love. She was eventually whisked to the Gazebo in Central Park where amid a canopy of lights, candles and rose petals, was a brand new pair of white ice skates.

New skates in hand, Elaine arrived at the ice rink. She was led to

Go Get It In the News!

Talk to Us

East Coast Office

the center and given a love letter from Richard. The lights went down, the music off and the real Endless Love by Diana Ross began playing. This was timed to the last line of Richards letter which read, "You will always be my Endless Love."

As Elaine finished reading the letter she looked up with tears spilling from her eyes, "Oh my God, am I in a dream?"

In that moment, Richard stepped onto the ice with a bouquet of flowers in one arm. He skated out to Elaine, putting his clandestine skating lessons to good use. They met, cried, embraced, he asked, and she said yes. Thus sealing their endless love.

(212) 252.2362
info@GoGetIt.org

West Coast Office
(323) 633.2049
info@GoGetIt.org

Click here to learn more about Go Get It!

~ About Go Get It! ~

Go Get It creates experiences- UNFORGETTABLE experiences, given as gifts.

But these are not the type of gifts you open in a box.

These are gifts that catapult you into your own movie, your own world, your own fantasy.

Our events bring the thrill, excitement, and passion of the movies into our clients' lives, creating an unforgettable evening of fantasy. Integrating real people's lives with the magic of the silver screen, Go Get It! creates an unparalleled experience.

www.GoGetIt.org

